PLAIN AND FANCY BOOK AND JOB PRINTING

ARDS printed in the highest style of the art. Hawaiian Mele Haui ka Lani, or "The Overthrow of the Islands." by the Poet Keaulumoku, (1716-84).

(ENGLISH METRICAL VERSION) VIII.

May Hawai-i belong unto the Chief To ripe old age; he is a noble Chief ! With dignity and uprightness adorn'd. Entirely just he should enjoy the land, The land of Hawa-ii, Ke-a-we's realm ,-Before Ke-a-we's day was Hawai-i-Thy predecessor, too, Ma-leia was. Ma-lela rose, like to the fierce east wind. The east wind when it rushes on like fire, Aka-le-i-o-hu-a flercer is, Ka-lani-meha-meha, the taboo'd, The chief to whom all sacredness belongs ! Whoe'er denies him homage dies by fire, Of lofty birth, a victor chief is he! A soaring bird is I-o-lani-ku ! He flies where fierce the wind of La-a blows. From Ho-o-mill-alau he descends. Where winds from Wai-ka-naka issue forth, The chief from Wai-a-kua takes his rise Whence spring the winds that issue from the clouds The bud, the swollen bud, the op'ning bud, Is blighted by the whirlwind's with'ring blast, The wind, the raging wind, the scatt'ring wind, Of Humu-ula the bananas strews, All that Pa-lila did not eat before Are swept off by the wind, yea every one. From Small Ka-holo to Ka-holo Great. The large bananas sacred to Ni-hau, " From Will-kula-mauu's upland torn, From Lau-ma-i-a and Ma-le-le stript, When ruled Kahiko in the olden time The founder of the Island's daring race. Like to the raging wind that shakes Wa-wau, The Kona of six teeth, the rushing wind Of He-a-puku, the flerce hurricane Of Hana-i-u, with the wintry rain Whose falling force beats e'en the tempest down, So is the Chief, the Kona's furious wind, Whose blast o'erturns the villages and towns, And devastates the forest's densest depths, Ka-mani-he-u, Ku-a-ka-a's son, The hill-top swept of La-a, and the hight Of Puma-i-a-lau-ku-pono stript. Now sits the Chief at leisure with calm grace, Upon Ku-mobo's mountain thron'd aloft.

VARIETY.

Resting his foot on high Ku-moho's top.

in size but of great strength."

A man innocently spoiled a sermon and prayer by exclaiming, while the tears rolled down his cheeks, " Lord, Thou knowest I have been an awful sinner-the chief among ten thousand and one altogether lovely !"

A gentleman had occasion to correct his daughter, aged four, recently. After it was over and she had sat a while, she went to her mother and inquired: "Don't you think it would do papa good to go out door ?" "I'm afraid you'll be late at the party," said an old lady to her stylish granddaughter, who replied, "Oh, you dear grandmother, don't you know that in our fashionable set nobody ever goes to a party till everybody gets there?" A good reason-" What do you drive such a pitiful-looking carcase as that for? Why don't you put a heavy coat of flesh on him?" "A heavy coat of flesh! by the powers, the poor crater can hardly carry what little there is on

A man lectured in Brooklyn the other evening in vindication of Judas. The audience consisted of three men, one woman and a boy, indicating that Judas has fewer friends in Brooklyn than would naturally be expected.

The Kingston Whig advertises as follows: "Wanted-A police reporter who will leave out everybody's name from the police report, and write paragraphs only which will please all classes of the community. Salary no object.' " Father," said a boy who got kicked in the face by a mule," will I ever be as good-looking as I was?" "No, my son," answered the parent, "I don't think you'll be as handsome as you were ; but you'll know a great deal more.' A three-year-old happened to have a want to be attended to just as his mother was busy with the baby. "Go way; I can't be bothered with you now." "What did you have so many children for, if you can't bother with 'em?" He unexpectedly inquired. SHAKY .- It is apt to shake a man's confidence in his wife to wake up in the morning and find her sitting on the edge of the bed, searching his pockets. And it is apt to shake a woman's conidence in her husband to find nothing in those pockets but a lager beer check, a piece of bologna sausage, a variety show ticket, and a perfumed note signed, " Ever yours, Julia." According to the researches of Herr F. Muench.

our earth has at one time or other been inhabited by 155,000 kinds of animals, of which 20,000 are now extinct, while the other 135,000 are still with us. Among the survivors are 2,000 varieties of mammalia, 1,000 of birds, 1,500 "creeping things," 8,000 of fish, 100,000 of insects, 4,000 radiata, 3,500 polypifera, 1,400 infusoria, and Herr Muench himself. At a recent dinner party an argumentative person, posted on the Eastern question, asked his innocent young neighbor: "Now, Mr .---, and what do you think would be the effect of a pro-tocol upon Turkey?" "Well, really, Professor," replied the youth, bracing up and looking at the plate before him, "I've never tried it. I think I'll try Worcestershire sauce on mine.' They use the leaf of the Eucalyptus tree, in San Diego, as a sort of catholicon. It is taken in the form of a decoction and, it is believed, will do every thing short of raising the dead. In fact it is questioned whether tombstones will hold down the defunct, if the number of the Eucalyptus trees continue to be multiplied as Somebody praised a kind of cake Jones brought down to his office. He was asked for a recipé for building the cake, and next day appeared with the following, which he had taken down in shorthand, from his wife's dictation, after dinner: "Seven cups of molasses, three pinches flour, two heaping quarts of salaratus, a pint of sugar, two pounds of milk, fruit to suit the taste, stir well and boil over a slow fire, and then set aside in a cold oven for a week." Somehow, Jones said, it didn't sound just right, but that was the way his notes read. A Paris letter says: A necklace that was last seen on the neck of a charming lady was the object of universal admiration. Some time ago a gentleman took this same necklace to the late Mr. Moiana, asking him to buy it, and to substitute false diamonds in their place. His wife, he said, would never know the difference. Mr. Moiana, who had known the wife from childhood, and who was a friend of her family, asked twenty-four hours to reflect before concluding the bargain. In that time he went and told the story to the lady's grandmother, who gave Moiana £2,000 to give the husband, telling him to give back the real necklace, but not to mention the truth. This was done. Some months later it was the wife who took the necklace to Moiana, asking him to buy it and to substitute false diamonds in the place of the real ones. "My husband will never know the difference," she said. Again a visit to the grandmother, who again gave £2,500 to keep the diamonds in the family, and as both husband and wife still think that the diamonds are false there is no fear of the GROCERY AND FEED STORE. necklace being resold.
